

Transatlantic Connections:

Celebrating the German-American Partnership

Germany and the United States have a long history as allies, partners, and at times, adversaries.

Today, the transatlantic alliance is strong as our governments and people work together to address global challenges. We are also connected by educational exchange, sports heroes, pop culture, and much more.

From the challenges addressing the Energiewende to Chancellor Angela Merkel's memorable encounters with U.S. presidents, we invite you to join us here in exploring the German-American partnership through a look at three areas:

- > Climate Change and Renewable Energy
- > Higher Education and Educational Exchange
- > Contemporary Cultural and Political Connections

Enjoy your journey—gute Reise!

WHAT ARE THE UNITED NATIONS SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS?

Our work at the GAI, at other nonprofit organizations, and between our governments is informed by the United Nation's 17 Sustainable Development Goals:

The 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, adopted by all United Nations Member States in 2015, provides a shared blueprint for peace and prosperity for people and the planet, now and into the future.

The global goals recognize that ending poverty and other deprivations must go hand-in-hand with strategies that improve health and education, reduce inequality, and spur economic growth—all while tackling climate change and working to preserve our oceans and forests.
